Phillips Exeter Bulletin

VOL. XXX

MAY, 1934

NO. 3

THE PHILLIPS EXETER BULLETIN is published four times a year. It is sent to all alumni whose addresses are known, and any who do not receive it regularly are asked to report the fact to Alumni Office, Administration Building, Exeter, New Hampshire. Communications of a more general nature should be addressed to the editors, Frank W. Cushwa and Myron R. Williams.

Entered March 22, 1905, at Exeter, N. H., as second-class matter, under Act of Congress of July 16, 1894.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This brief Bulletin is a news supplement to the April issue, which was an illustrated booklet entitled "Phillips Exeter" prepared primarily for parents seeking information about the school. Because much of the information had already been made known to the Alumni through previous Bulletins, this April issue was not sent out to all persons on the complete mailing list, which now contains over 10,000 names. Copies may be had, however, by application to the Alumni Office, Exeter, New Hampshire.

It should be understood that the Academy, probably like all other educational institutions, has still to watch narrowly all its expenditures. It is true that the Academy has received large gifts—but not so large as many seem to assume; and nearly all have been for special purposes. For general expenses, as heretofore, it must depend on student fees and unrestricted endowment funds. With rising cost of prices and a decrease in returns from invested funds, some economies are, of course, necessary.

Fortunately the improvements made possible by Mr. Harkness are continuing. The contract has just been signed for the last of the four new dormitory units,—the one on Elliot Street on the site of the houses occupied by Mr. Crosbie and Mr. Sweet. It is to be completed next February. The last of the appointments for the additional twenty-six teachers is about to be made. By the beginning of the next school year, therefore, we shall have all our additional instructors, and by the middle of the year, all our buildings. There will remain only the necessary adjustments.

The general Alumni Association has asked the Bulletin to inform its readers that on Alumni Day, June 2, appropriate notice will be taken of the fact that Dr. Perry is finishing twenty years of service to the Academy. Thomas W. Lamont, '88, will speak on this theme. The complete program for the day follows. It is hoped that a large number of alumni and parents will come to Exeter on that day.

REUNIONS

The following classes are planning reunions:

1889—45th	1909—25th
1894—40th	1914—20th
1899—35th	1924—10th
1904—30th	1929—5th

Alumni belonging to any of the above classes should have already received notice. If a member has not been informed, we urge him to communicate with the officer of his class who is named below.

- 1889—George H. Carter, 5 Richmond St, Haverhill, Mass.
 1894—George K. Manson, 50 Oliver Street, Boston, Mass.
 1899—Lyman D. Hall, 565 Fifth Avenue, New York City.
 1904—Lieutenant Colonel Stuart C. Godfrey, 1st Corps Area, Army Base, Boston, Mass.
 1909—Geo. B. Cortelyou, Jr., 51 Madison Avenue, New York City.

1914—Joseph T. Walker, Jr., 40 Water Street, Boston, Mass.

1924—William G. Saltonstall, Exeter, N. H.

1929—William T. Reed, 37 Division Avenue, Belleville, N. J.

The Class of 1884 is making plans for its 50th Reunion on June 9. Members of that class should communicate with Edward R. Warren, 22 Chestnut Street, Boston, Mass.

The Class of 1919 is having no reunion this year, but plans are being made to co-operate with 1918 and 1920 for a reunion in 1935. Members of 1919 will be notified of plans.

NEWS OF THE SCHOOL

AT THE PHILLIPS CHURCH

The preachers during the winter and spring terms have been as follows: Jan. 7, Dean Howard C. Robbins, of General Theological Seminary, New York; Jan. 14, Reverend Arthur L. Kinsolving, of Trinity Church, Boston; Jan. 21, Reverend C. Leslie Glenn, of Cambridge, Mass.; Jan. 28, Reverend H. H. Tweedy, of Yale University; Feb. 4, Dr. Halford E. Luccock, of Yale University; Feb. 11, Dr. Boyd Edwards, of Mercersburg Academy; Feb. 18, Reverend Morgan P. Noyes, of Montclair, N. J.; Feb. 25, Reverend William P. Schell, of New York City; March 4, Dr. Bernard I. Bell, of Providence, R. I.; Mar. 11, President J. Edgar Park, of Wheaton College; Mar. 18, Dr. Joseph H. Twichell, of Williams College; April 8, Reverend Maxwell Savage, of Worcester, Mass.; April 15, Dean W. L. Sperry, of Harvard University; April 22, Reverend John J. Moment, of Plainfield, N. J.; April 29, Reverend A. Graham Baldwin, of Phillips Academy; May 6, President James L. McConaughy, of Wesleyan University; May 13, Dean Robert R. Wicks, of Princeton University.

LECTURES

The following lectures were given to the school: Dean George H. Edgell, of Harvard University, on "Modern Architecture"; Governor John G. Winant on "School and Country"; Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, of Harvard University, on "Sons of the Earth"; Mr. Leon M. Pearson, Exeter 1924, on "The Virgin Islands"; Mr. R. E. Bishop, of Philadelphia, on "Etching-making"; Mr. Philip P. Chase, of Harvard University, on "Every Man His Own Historian"; Mr. Donald Oenslager, Exeter 1919, on "Stage Design"; Mr. Harland Manchester, Exeter 1917, of the Boston "Herald", on "Literary Acquaintances"; Professor Howland, of the University of Chicago, on "Republic of San Marino"; Mr. John Bakeless, of New York University, on "Behind the Editorial Scene"; Mr. James Roosevelt on "Practical Politics"; Mr. Myron R. Williams, of the Faculty, on "Literary Adventures"; Mr. R. W. Beach, of Cambridge, Mass., on "Development of Printing"; Mr. William H. Schubert, of New York, on "Modern Banking Problems"; Mr. Charles E. Park, of Boston, on "Clipper Ships".

Science lectures were given as follows: Professor C. F. Brooks, of Harvard University, on "Weather"; Dr. G. Kimball, of M. I. T., on "Heavy Water"; Professor Albert Hill, of Wesleyan University, on "Colors in Plants"; Dr. Van der Graaffe on "High Voltage Electricity". The Merrill Course closed with two lectures: Mr. Mark Haight on "Joan of Arc" and Mr. Bruce Lockhart on "War-Time Russia."

DRAMA

In addition to informal performances in the Little Theatre two plays were presented during the winter. The Junior Class, under the supervision of Mr. Earl A. Barrett, gave an adaptation of Molière's "Doctor in Spite of Himself". The following took part: Thomas Ahern, of Westerly, R. I.; Robert Bart, of New Canaan, Conn.; Norman Williams, of Durham; Charles Stern, of Brookline, Mass.; Nelson Gidding, of New York City; Robert Mazur, of Brookline, Mass.; William Stewart, of Great Neck, N. Y.; John Beardsley, of Philadelphia; Alfred Gilbert, of New York City.

The Dramatic Association, directed by Mr. Balch, assisted by Mr. Mayher, gave "Sun-Up", by Lulu Vollmer. Actors and producers deserve praise for a convincing and vivid production. The cast was as follows:

Widow Cagle, N. Goodwin of Lake Forest, Ill.
Rufe Cagle.....G. Adams, of Plymouth
Pap Todd...F. Sheldon, of Buffalo, N. Y.
Emmy Todd, R. Mazur, of Brookline, Mass.
Bud Todd.....J. Huntington, of Boston
Sheriff Weeks...J. Flower, of Deerfield, Mass.
Preacher.....W. Batt, of Montclair, N. J.
Stranger....T. Bradshaw, of Bogota, N. J.

MID-WINTER DANCE

The annual mid-winter dance, held in the Thompson Gymnasium the day of the Worcester basketball game, was attended by over two hundred dancers. A dark blue canopy, fringed with red streamers, formed a vaulted ceiling overhead, while the walls were draped with pine boughs and large red banners. Lighting was effected by strings of Chinese lanterns which bordered the canopy, adding color to the setting. Doc Brisette and his band played.

ILLUSTRATIVE MATERIALS

A part of the Harkness Plan at Exeter is the systematic use of illustrative materials for teaching. The English Department, for example, has had the following exhibitions of prints and rare books in Phillips Hall during the past few months, arranged by Dr. Chilson H. Leonard: illustrated editions and pictures of productions of Twelfth Night and The Tempest; photostats of Boswell Mss and portraits of persons in The Life of Johnson; a collection of first and early editions of 18th century books of voyages, including Bligh's accounts of the mutiny on H. M. S. Bounty, lent by Austin Lamont '23; illustrated editions of Vanity Fair and T. Shotter Boys' pictures of London; several series of historical prints lent by the Worcester Art Museum; contemporary portraits and illustrations for Strachey's Queen Victoria; first editions of Conrad presented by James T. Babb '20, and ship prints and maps for Conrad's novels; photographs of English places by Miss Esther Jackson of Boston; original Mss and letters of William McFee, and inscribed editions of his novels lent by James T. Babb '20; original editions and prints by George Cruikshank, lent by the Princeton University Library.

The Academy is constantly building up its own collection of illustrative materials. Mr. Harry M. Bland, a well-known authority on prints, recently gave the Academy a collection of several thousand portraits, prints of English places, and engravings on the British theater. These are being mounted and added to the files of illustrative materials kept in the Davis Library.

Exhibitions at the Library

The Exhibition Rooms at the Davis Library, which are in constant use, have had the following exhibitions during the last few months: Currier and Ives prints, lent by Charles W. Rice '34 and Mr. Charles Whiting of Franklin, Massachusetts; German art objects and reproductions of classic and modern German art, lent by the Germanic Museum at Harvard; rare engraved portraits of George Washington, lent by Charles W. McAlpin '34 of New York; railroad posters purchased recently in England by Mr. Myron Williams of the English Department; old sea charts given by Richard H. Tenney '31; and ship prints collected by the James N. Hill

Marine Society; water colors of Europe and New England by Miss Agnes Abbot and Miss Margaret Surre of the Art Department at Wellesley College; prints illustrative of Spanish art and culture; and two ship models lent by Austin Lamont '23, one a contemporary model of a British frigate, 1776, and the other a contemporary model of an English collier brig, 1818, both of which were re-conditioned for exhibition by Captain H. Percy Ashley of New York.

Acquisitions at the Davis Library

The Davis Library has recently received so many gifts from generous alumni, students, and friends that it is impossible to list them all here. Edwin W. James, '98 has given several hundred books for the library and for common rooms in the dormitories; Dr. F. G. Oppenheimer of San Antonio, Texas, a collection of some 40 volumes of German books printed in America in the 19th century; Francis F. Randolph, '07, volumes of Cervantes, Defoe, George Eliot, and Maurois; Mrs. Loewenstein, about 50 books from the library of her son, the late M. Fred Loewenstein, '28; James T. Babb, '20, copies of recent books by McFee and L. A. G. Strong, and some books on the sea; Hoyt C. Reed, '24, a copy of the 1795 edition of The Journal of Port Jackson; and the Misses Sarah, Elizabeth, and Margaret Frost of Andover, a rare 1819 Exeter diploma.

One of the most interesting of recent gifts is a set of The Private Papers of James Boswell from Malahide Castle, just presented to the library by Charles W. McAlpin, '84, of New York. This is the set, in 18 volumes, of The Boswell Papers in the Collection of Lt.-Colonel Ralph Heyward Isham, edited by Geoffrey Scott and Frederick A. Pottle. The volumes were designed by Bruce Rogers and printed by William Edwin Rudge, and the edition was limited to 570 sets.

Our collection of imported colored reproduction and foreign posters is increasing and has been distributed as follows. In the Latni corridors in the Academy Building: Boullanger's La Boubique du Barbier Licinius; Luigi Kasimir's etching, Forum Romanum; E. Forti's La Via Appia; Guido Rini's Aurora; Velasquez's Vulcan's Smithy; Corregio's Ganymede; Sir Frederick Leighton's Captive Andromache; Turner's Ulysses Deriding Polyphemus; Corot's Orpheus and Eurydice; Roman bath, Bath, England. In the mathematics corridor: one lithograph by Muirhead Bone and two by Pennell; Holbein's Nicholas Kratzer. In the Little Theatre; a complete set of Daumier's theatre cartoons; a Greek theatre with a play in progress; an Elizabethan theatre; Stratford theatre; and many autographed photographs of famous actors; a set of original Edwin Booth playbills. In the music studio: Beckerath's Brahms at the Piano; Vermeer's The Wine Taster; Duvenik's Whistling Boy; Menzel's Flute Concert. In Webster Hall dining room: Frans Hals's Officers of the Corps and Archers of St. Adrien; Van Gogh's Landscape with Vegetable Garden and his Portrait of a Young Man; Paul Henry's Connemara Ireland; Compton's Landscape in the Tyrol; Richard Wyndham's Tickeray Mill. In Dunbar Hall: Zingt's Plowing; Paul Herve's Blue Lake Connemara; nine posters of English scenes. In Phillips Hall corridors: the Death of Socrates; reconstruction of Olympia and of the Acropolis; several old English copperplates; English posters; photographs of Groups by Rodin; French prints. In addition, many new pictures have been hung in the conference rooms in Phillips Hall and the Academy Buildings, in the Science Library and corridors of the Thompson Science Buildings. In the Davis Library: an etching printed at Exeter by Mr. Richard E. Bishop, of Philadelphia from the plate made by Paul Revere and lent for the purpose by Mr. Lessing Rosenwald; an etching by Robert Partidge; an etching, "Coming In", by Robert E. Bishop, presented by the artist; colored wood cut by Frances H. Gearhart; and other prints and lithographs.

ATHLETICS

Wrestling

For several years past a number of boys have tried to get this sport officially recognized by the Academy, and this year their efforts met with success. Basketball coach O. W. Pearson acted as mentor for the squad, and J. T. Gifford, '35, was elected captain.

A preliminary meet was lost to the Harvard Freshmen, and a dual meet with Andover was held in the Thompson Gymnasium on March 17.

Andover's experienced team was hard pressed to defeat our grapplers, as the score clearly shows. Seven of the eight matches were decided by "time advantage", neither contestant being able to throw his opponent, and the meet was undecided until the decision was rendered in the unlimited class, in which Murray (A) won on time advantage from Peyton (E), giving the Blue matmen the victory, 14 to 12.

The Andover All-Club team defeated our All-Class team, 20½ to 9½.

J. T. Gifford, '35, of South Orange, N. J., was elected captain for next year.

About 120 boys chose squash for their winter sport and worked under the direction of Mr. George E. Bennett.

Andover has no squash team, but a schedule of nine games was played, and E's were awarded Capt. Townsend, Cookman, Hatch, Oakman, Sargent, W. Williams and Manager Dexter. Our "racketeers" won four of their nine contests.

The Seniors were victorious in the class league, and an All-Class team was chosen: DeKruif; Bate; Ellis; Slick, Tuohy.

The Lockett Squash Racquets Cups, presented by Arthur H. Lockett, '88, were won by Cookman (first) and Capt. Townsend (runner-up).

R. F. Townsend, '35, of San Antonio, Texas, was re-elected captain for next year, and S. C. Keeler, '35, of Wilton, Conn., was chosen manager.

Basketball

It is perhaps natural, although unfair to both coach and players, to expect a team in any sport to begin where last year's team left off. After last year's brilliant aggregation, this year's squad looked unpromising, and it did lose three of its nine preliminary games.

However, under the direction of Coach Pearson and the leadership of Captan "Speed" Wilson, the team developed slowly but surely and reached its peak at the end of the season in the final game on the Andover court, defeating Andover 30 to 28.

Each team used only one substitute, and the players were pretty well "out on their feet" when the game ended. For Exeter, Appel, with 15 points, was leading marksman, and Herrick came next with 9. C. Kellogg and Groudahl each scored 8 points for Andover.

This victory gives Exeter the edge in the series, 7 to 6. Congratulations are due Coach Pearson, Trainer Murch, and the members of the winning team.

A. C. Beltzner, '35, of Joliet, Ill., was elected captain for next year, and S. G. Etherington, Jr., '35, of New York City was chosen manager.

In the class league the annual championship was annexed by the Seniors, coached by Mr. Souders.

The season ended with a double-header, played in the Thompson Gymnasium. Mr. Souders' J.-V's. defeated the Andover J.V's in a close game, 18 to 16, and the All-Class team, also coached by Mr. Souders, defeated the All-Club team in a well played game, in which Littman starred, by a score of 24 to 17.

Swimming

The squad from which Coach McNamara developed this year's team was made up very largely of boys who had been developed here under his direction. There was a steady improvement during the preliminary season, during which six meets were won and only one set-back encountered, when the Harvard Freshman defeated our boys by a single point 33 to 32.

Before the dual meet with Andover there seemed little to choose between the two teams, since the Blue tankmen had also had a successful preliminary season. Therefore nobody was surprised when the meet turned out to be very close, the lead alternating from one event to the next. Each team took four first places, and the final result of the meet really depended on second place in the diving. This was originally awarded to Kelly of Andover by less than a quarter of a point, and the Blue mermen left the tank thinking they had defeated Exeter, 33 to 32. Later an error in computation was discovered, and the judges eventually awarded second place to Casparis of Exeter, which gave Exeter the victory 34 to 31.

C. J. Wilson, '35, of Pelham Manor, N. Y., was elected Captain for next year, and G. B. Maynard, Jr., '35, of Lexington, Mass., was chosen manager.

The All-Club swimmers defeated their All-Class rivals, 45 to 20.

Hockey

A review of the hockey season ought this year to begin with the statement that for the first time in several years there was ice, good ice and plenty of it. Eight preliminary games were played, and six of them were won. Harvard Freshmen administered the only defeat, while the New Hampshire State yearlings battled our boys to a tie, 2 to 2.

About one hundred candidates reported to Coach P. C. Rogers, but Capt. James Savage and Sleeper were the only letter men on the squad. Mr. Saltonstall and Mr. Rhodes of the Faculty, members respectively of Coach Rogers' 1924 and 1925 teams, assisted in the coaching and practically all the members of the team were developed here in Exeter.

The annual game with Andover was played in the Boston Arena and proved to be a real argument from start to finish, although Exeter, with an unbroken string of seven victories over the Blue, was the favorite before the contest.

The Andover skaters were the first to score, after about 10 minutes of fast play; but Capt. Savage evened the count about 3 minutes later.

Again in the second period Andover went into the lead on Platt's clever drive-from in front of the Exeter net. Clark evened matters again, two minutes before the period ended, and Allen drove in what proved to be the winning score just as the period closed.

During the final period Andover was unable to pierce the Red and Gray defense, while the ubiquitous Clark registered two more counters. This made the final score 5 to 2, for Exeter's eighth consecutive victory. Congratulations are certainly in order for Coach Rogers, Mgr. Shute, Capt. Savage and the members of the winning team.

J. A. Feeley, '35, of Cambridge, Mass., was elected captain for next year, and L. V. Haggerty, '35, of Hackensack, N. J., was chosen manager.

The class teams, under the direction of Mr. Thomas, assisted by Dr. Bartlett, had a very successful season. Twelve games were played, and the championship was won by the Uppers.

An All-Class team, captained by Sessler, '34, lost two games to the Faculty and defeated the Dover High School twice.

Track

Thanks to the Thompson Cage track has now taken its place as a regular winter sport, and Coach Carrell, assisted by Asst. Coach Lawler, kept the squad busy throughout the term.

The dual meets with New Hampshire, Bowdoin Junior Varsity's, and Huntington School were won by our boys, but, the Harvard Freshmen, led by Dubiel, a "one man track team", defeated the home team. Capt. Donovan, the most versatile track athlete we have ever had in Exeter, starred in all these meets.

For the first time an indoor meet was held with Andover to take the place of the annual relay race, so long a feature of the B. A. A. games.

The meet was held in the Andover cage and was very well attended. Nine regular events and a relay race made up the program. Each team accounted for four first places and the high-jump resulted in a tie. At one time during the meet Exeter looked like a winner, when Pettingell defeated the veteran Hardy in the pole-vault and established a new Exeter record in that event; but Exeter's fatal weakness was in the distance runs, in which the Blue runners annexed 25 out of a possible 27 points.

The final event was the relay. If Exeter won it, the meet was theirs by the slender margin of $\frac{1}{2}$ a point. If Andover won, the meet event with the victory by the score of $47\frac{1}{2}$ to $38\frac{1}{2}$. Exciting seems a mild term for this event. The Andover record was broken, and so was the press table (too many officials and reporters tried to stand on it at the same time). Exeter's anchorman, Bliss, made up a five yard gap, but he could not quite pass Wolff. The relay went to Andover by about a yard, and the meet went with it. It was a hard one to lose. Capt. Donovan collected 19 points for Exeter, and Furse won two firsts for the Blue.

NEWS FROM THE COLLEGES

In the columns that follow, the Editors of the Bulletin have attempted to summarize the news of Exonians at several of the colleges in so far as this news has been available. The methods of recording and publishing scholastic rank and honors differ widely in the different colleges, as does the availability of other data. For these reasons what follows should not be considered as anything like a parallel or comparative report; and the incompleteness of it the Editors will gladly supplement in the next issue, with the assistance of interested Alumni.

Princeton

In the Senior Class graduating in June, 1933, the following six Exeter boys were members of Phi Beta Kappa: W. M. Cahn, Jr.; V. L. Collins, Jr.; R. C. Gordon, Jr.; R. H. Harris, Jr.; R. W. Leopold; K. H. Stokes. These additional members of the Senior Class were cited for honors in either the first or second groups: H. A. Breed; D. S. Buck; S. Burke; J. D. Colson; W. E. Gillespie; H. L. T. Koren; W. A. Rossiter.

In the Junior Class among the first thirty in the class were the following sixteen Exeter graduates: W. R. Bonthron; F. T. Buchner; J. H. Burchenal; H. H. Clement; H. R. Connick; W. H. Corbin; W. R. Cosby; W. S. Eisenhart, Jr.; T. Evans; E. M. Gemmell; L. C. Gordon; G. G. Huff; L. H. Seton; C. Thompson; W. M. Weaver, Jr.; W. D. Wright.

In athletics and other activities at Princeton, graduates of Exeter have participated as follows:

Class Officers: President Class 1934 for four years, A. S. Lane '30.

Other Officers: Undergraduate Council, A. S. Lane '30 (Chairman); Undergraduate Schools Committee, E. M. Gemmell, '30 (President); Student Faculty Board, R. M. Etherington '31; A. S. Lane '30.

Phillips Exeter Bulletin

VOL. XXX.

AUGUST, 1934

NO. 4

THE PHILLIPS EXETER BULLETIN is published four times a year. It is sent to all alumni whose addresses are known, and any who do not receive it regularly are asked to report the fact to Alumni Office, Administration Building, Exeter, New Hampshire. Communications of a more general nature should be addressed to the editors, Frank W. Cushwa and Myron R. Williams.

Entered March 22, 1905, at Exeter, N. H., as second-class matter, under Act of Congress of July 16, 1894.

MID-SUMMER LETTER TO THE ALUMNI

To the Alumni and Friends of Exeter:

Another school year has passed. It is not expected that the announcement will stir surprise or dissent. Years pass, it will be said, as is their habit — and so it has been with the Academy, where college freshmen are being produced according to the old formula. It may even be thought that during the past year Exeter has been largely untouched and untroubled by economic and social disturbances in the rest of the world. But these are idle suppositions. Life at Exeter is real enough and, to us who remain here, absorbing. It is hoped that this brief appraisal of the past year may show both how and why.

It is not easy to find a good description or label for the year 1933-1934. We hesitate, for example, to refer to it as the year "of high marks," "of the largest Senior Class," "of Dr. Perry's twentieth anniversary," or "of the last new dormitory." Ultimates make poor titles. One member of the faculty recently referred to it as "a happy year," a year of good feeling and co-operation. That is what it has been. Toward this end ancient habit and happy accident have played their part, as they do in most things that turn out well. But other influences have also been at work.

At the beginning, in September 1933, the prospects were not altogether bright. Exeter, in common with the rest of the country, has felt and is still feeling the depression. During the past three years, although gifts and bequests have been received, the invested funds of the Academy naturally have shrunk. Their shrinkage has limited funds for scholarships, student loans, salaries, lectures, and maintenance of grounds and buildings, to mention only a few economies necessitated. The benefactions of Mr. Harkness, according to the terms of gift and acceptance, have been kept strictly to their own uses. Again, for financial reasons, many parents have felt that they could send their sons away to school for only one year; and, partly as a result, in September 1933, we had the largest Senior Class in the history of the school — 279. Many of these Seniors were new boys, and they, together with new students in other classes, made an exceptionally large number of individuals to assimilate into the life of the school. Furthermore, the quality of preparation of many of the new students was obviously below normal. Throughout the country, education has been hard hit. In many schools classrooms are overcrowded, many schools have run on part time, holidays and vacations have been numerous, and some schools have been closed altogether. The slowing up in educational production has been nation-wide. For these and reasons related to them, the beginning of last year did not look very promising.

What was done to meet the situation? First of all, with prudence and economy, the treasurer was able to announce a small surplus from the preceding year. At Exeter charges and expenditures are relatively low. Parents, too, had responded to the reality of the situation, and by the end of the summer there were practically no unpaid bills. Notwithstanding readjustments in the prices of rooms and the institution of the "flat rate" there was, however, no general reduction in charges and no practice of admitting students on

"cut rates." Further preparations consisted in accepting students for the year 1933 on the basis of what they needed to achieve, with full realization of deficiencies to be made up during the school year. And, naturally, a larger number than ever were accepted whose financial prospects were more or less dubious. This procedure involved risks both scholastic and financial.

What have been the results? Principally, perhaps, because of the low expenses at Exeter, and partly because of Mr. Richardson's careful attention to the cases of individuals, the Academy began the year 1933-1934 with the second largest enrollment in its history — 714. (In 1926 the number was 716.) From the start, the school year was marked by unusual industry on the part of the boys and, probably, unusual helpfulness on the part of the men. The result, at any rate, was a steady upward gain in A's, B's, and C's and a proportionate decrease in D's and E's. Ultimately the school achieved the highest record for scholarship that it has had. By the end of the year there were 64 First Group Scholars and 65 Second Group Scholars, approximately one-fifth of the school. The Senior Class also distinguished itself not only for size. In quality it stands among our best, with 45 members elected to the Cum Laude Society. The athletic season, too, was, as the phrase is, "successful." In the final contests, Exeter lost to Andover in track, tennis and baseball, and won in football, hockey, basketball, golf and swimming. And financially, the treasurer expects only a small deficit. It has been a good year.

It is possible only to guess at the various causes. The first that might occur to one would be the large number of scholarship boys, whose eagerness has always been a stimulus to the whole school. Funds made it possible to give scholarships and aids to only about half the number of applicants, but that number — 106 — was larger than ever before, and about \$30,000 was expended in this way. Then, too, there is no doubt that the Harkness Plan is working. One result is that while in the country at large classes are increasing in size, at Exeter they are decreasing. Next year they will be even smaller. This has meant, of course, increased attention to the individual boy. Yet after all is said and done, whatever the "Plan" may seem to optimists or to pessimists, the fact remains that by means of it there have been brought to Exeter from different parts of the country and different fields of work and of interest 26 enthusiastic young teachers with new ideas. Any plan depends upon the men who work it. Perhaps enough has already been said about the plan; and the evidence is that the work of the new men speaks for itself. Another force, imponderable and incalculable, was mentioned by Mr. Lamont on Alumni Day when he spoke on Dr. Perry's 20 years as Principal. At that time he gave a summary of almost incredible achievement: an increase in the number of students from 569 to 714; an increase in the number of teachers from 29 to 68 (not including officers of administration, athletic directors and coaches); reduction in the proportion of boys to teachers from $19\frac{1}{2}$ to $10\frac{1}{2}$; an increase in the number of boys in dormitories from 383 to 663; an increase of books in the Davis Library from 10,000 to 23,000; and an increase in the total resources of the school of 600 per cent. (For 1933-34, the budget of the Academy was \$922,040.) All of this, however, more than hints that the head of the school for 20 years has been a great balancing power of wisdom, kindness and common sense.

Prospects for the coming year are somewhat brighter than they were a year ago. First of all, there are the two new dormitories, both gifts of Mr. Harkness. Wheelwright Hall, housing 42 boys and three instructors, is all ready for occupancy in September. Work on the new dormitory on Elliot Street is progressing so that it is expected to be ready in January. This will house three instructors and 42 boys. Next, readjustments in charges under the new flat rate of $1050 will make possible, it is hoped, the outlay of about $75,000 this year for scholarships and foundation aids — more than twice the amount available last year. Again, six new instructors will complete the quota of 26 provided for under the Harkness Plan. Among them will be Calvin S. Brown, Jr., (A.B. University of Mississippi, A.M. University of Cincinnati, A.B. Oxford University) who will teach German; Thomas E. Folds, (A.B., B.F.A. Yale) who will teach English and art; F. A. Philbrick, (A.B. and A.M. Oxford University and instructor at Rugby School, England,) who will be visiting instructor in Chemistry; E. R. Scott (A.B. and A.M. Cambridge University, instructor in Kings College School, London, and visiting instructor at Exeter 1932-33,) who will teach English; and Philip M. Ham, Exeter 1926, (A.B. and A.M. Princeton University and instructor at Brown University) who will teach French.

It would be most unfortunate for the notion to go abroad that Exeter has all that she needs and can sit tight. However much our large benefactors have enabled us to do in the last three years, we are sobered by a sense of our responsibilities. Where much is given, much is expected. No larger school is sought. On the contrary, the ambition of those in administration at Exeter is to make available to greater numbers of promising sons of parents of restricted means the great resources and advantages of the school. More and more the Academy is attracting sons of professional men — college professors, preachers, physicians — boys of intellectual ability but not of wealthy parents. Often in their communities it is impossible to find adequate schools or teachers with the time — even if the ability is there — to prepare these boys for college. In a vast number of cities and towns in the country proper work simply is not being done — one result of the depression. Almost as never before, schools like Exeter fill an educational need. The problem, however, might be said to be one of distribution. Since the resources of the Academy obviously cannot go to the boy, the boy must be brought to the Academy; and scholarships provide the method of distributing the benefits of the Academy amongst boys of limited means. For the coming year, the trustees have increased the funds reserved for scholarships and foundation aids from $30,000 to $75,000; but this is not enough. Of this amount, only $16,000 is available for scholarships earned during the school year. Financial reward remains one of the most potent motives for human effort — for boys as well as men. More money is needed, then, for scholarships — not in spite of the Harkness Plan, but, as might be said, because of it.

Increasingly at the Academy opportunities are being opened to the possibilities for enjoyment in literature, art and music; additional courses in these fields are a definite and important part of our educational plan. Already a great work has been done by the Alumni in adding to our collection of books and pictures. Conspicuous among the donors are the "Friends of The Davis Library," a voluntary association of the Alumni who assist with gifts of books, annual subscription and permanent endowment funds of $50.00 or more. Some Alumni have also sent pictures and money for pictures; but, for new common rooms, dining rooms, corridors and conference rooms, even more are needed. The new department of art requires an endowment fund for a permanent full time instructor. By such gifts Alumni and friends of Exeter can continue to make the Academy a place of greater distinction, with an environment in which beauty plays its part.

Another need scarcely less urgent is for a greater number of young boys for the Junior and Lower Middle Classes. The size of the Senior Class is rather more a matter for concern than for pride. It is poor husbandry to lose the top branches, the new growth, of a tree or shrub each year. And the one-year boy, excellent and valuable an addition as he often is, horticulturally speaking, is our "new growth." In the past few years much has been done to make Exeter a favorable place for the young boy, and more is being done. Next year, for example, an additional dormitory will be, like Dunbar, reserved exclusively for young boys and administered in ways best suited to their needs.

Money for scholarships and young boys for the lower classes — these are our primary needs. Yet, as has been hinted, most of our old needs remain and increase. Not all are financial; and many must be met either by the faculty or by the student body. At the present moment, for example, a symbolic rite is taking place in the Academy Yard. Several hundred feet of new return steam pipes are being laid in connection with the boiler plant. The cause is the added strain levied on the old heating system by the new buildings. The significance of the symbol is the present testing of old methods, old equipment, and the revealing of new inadequacies. The Harkness Plan, then, is a silent, beneficent pressure throughout the school. More demands on the individual boy, better work by his fellows in class, rumors of more interesting classes, fresh ventures in teaching imported by teachers new to the school — these are some of the new forces felt by boys and men. More is being done for the individual boy; and the ambition and determination is that the boys themselves may be increased not in numbers but in variety and representativeness of economic groups and sections of the country most in need of what it is felt that Exeter can give.

Postal regulations required the mailing of this extra number of the BULLETIN this summer quarter, and its brevity was necessitated by the limitations of our budget. The editors, then, thought that it might be used as a letter to the Alumni, acquainting them with recent developments and immediate prospects in the school. Dr. Perry is now in England or he would have written the letter himself; but all views here expressed — except, of course, the paraphrase from Mr. Lamont — are known to be Dr. Perry's. We are beginning the next year with hope and confidence.

CLASS REUNIONS

Besides the meeting of the General Alumni Association, on Alumni Day, June 2, 1934, there were also held reunions of several classes. Reports of meetings of the classes of 1884, 1899, 1904, 1909, 1914, and 1924 have been received at the Alumni Office. Special interest attaches to the reunion of the class of 1884, which met on June 11, and Mr. Warren's account follows.

Report of the Fiftieth Anniversary Reunion of the Class of 1884

At ten o'clock on Monday morning, June 11, 1934, twelve members of our class of 1884 met at the Copley Plaza Hotel in Boston, where motors were provided to take us to Exeter in time for luncheon at the Exeter Inn. On our way to Exeter, where two more members awaited us, we called for Bradley W. Palmer at his countryseat in Topsfield. This made fifteen in all, a record attendance for fiftieth anniversary reunions. Fine weather, high spirits and good fellowship combined to make our celebration a success from the start. Several of the men had not met since they parted as boys fifty years ago, which made the occasion all the more interesting.

As usual, the Academy had provided everything that could be desired for our comfort and pleasure. Intending no reflection on our age and infirmities, but wishing only to give us excellent quarters, we were assigned rooms in the new Infirmary. After luncheon, on Monday, under the kindly guidance of members of the Faculty, we visited many of the new buildings which we had never seen before, and witnessed the remarkable developments of recent years in every department of the Academy. At five o'clock we had tea with Dr. Perry at his home, which was delightful, and in the evening, as guests of the Academy, we dined at Dunbar Hall with Dr. Perry and Professor Tufts, both of whom made charming addresses. Tuesday morning we were present at the chapel exercises where we received a grand ovation. Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, addressed the boys with wise counsel as to their coming responsibilities as citizens, but perhaps he made them feel that some things in this country were worse than they really are. We spent Tuesday morning strolling leisurely about the town, renewing the memories of boyhood. We lunched again at the Exeter Inn and at three o'clock motored back to Boston. Unfortunately, our classmate, Larz Anderson, was unable to be with us at Exeter, but he invited us to dine with him on Tuesday evening at his beautiful estate in Brookline, which was, indeed, the crowning event of a thoroughly enjoyable reunion. Those present were Charles W. McAlpin, Larz Anderson, Amos N. Blandin, Albert E. Hadlock, Henry L. Nason, Wallace Nutting, Bradley W. Palmer, Franklin D. Peale, John M. Peters, Gifford Pinchot, Wilder D. Quint, Frank J. Sanborn, Franklin C. Southworth, Joseph Walker, Solon G. Warren, Edward R. Warren.

A descendant of John Winthrop and Peter Stuyvesant, he was a great-grandson of the first John Jacob Astor and a member of a distinguished family. After leaving Exeter, he continued his studies at Harvard and graduated with the class of 1891. Immediately after his graduation he set out on a year's exploration trip in Africa. He equipped a safari of 200 men and went to explore the region of the Tana River in British East Africa. Lieutenant von Hohnel, of the Austrian Navy, accompanied him. He lost many of his men by disease, and he himself was desperately ill. He succeeded, however, in mapping a territory as large as the kingdom of Portugal. Maps still show Chanler Falls; and a species of antelope and several kinds of reptiles and insects which he found, bear his name. He was away two years and when he returned he published two books, "Through Jungle and Desert" and "Travels in Eastern Africa," each one telling of his adventures. Later he astonished everyone by announcing his intention to join Tammany Hall and enter politics. As a result he was elected to the New York Assembly in 1897, and in 1894 he was nominated for Congress on the Democratic ticket in the 14th district of Manhattan. Mr. Chanler served only one term in Congress. In 1903 he married Miss Minnie Ashley, who afterwards became a sculptress, exhibiting her work under the name of Beatrice Chanler. Since his marriage he had spent most of the time in France. In 1915, Mr. Chanler was injured in an automobile accident in France and was obliged to have one leg amputated at the knee. During the World War, Mr. and Mrs. Chanler lived in France and Mrs. Chanler was active in relief work. Mr. Chanler is survived by his wife and two sons, William Astor, Jr., and Ashley.

Mr. Pickering, at the time of his death, was a widely known newspaperman, having been associated with a prominent paper for the past 32 years. He was also one of the best known Masons in central Massachusetts. His associates speak of him as follows: "It is difficult to write dispassionately of the passing of an associate of such long standing; it is difficult to imagine this office without the cheery greeting and kindly presence of Dan Pickering. He was of those who are the salt of the earth, of those who lend the savor of friendliness, of helpfulness, of encouragement to human existence. He came of heroic stock, counting among his ancestors the great Lord Nelson, of British naval glory, Stephen Decatur, of American naval glory, and Timothy Pickering, Massachusetts statesman, who in the administration of President Washington, was postmaster general, then secretary of war, and then secretary of state, in this last office serving also under President John Adams. Dan Pickering's paternal grandfather was a captain in the patriot army during the Revolution. Though it was not given to Dan Pickering to attain the heights trod by so many of his forebears, he was, nevertheless, a sturdy representative of his race. By birth a mid-Westerner, by blood and upbringing a New Englander, he was a thorough-going American, a citizen of the sort we like to think of as constituting the backbone of this nation. Throughout his life he never shirked duty or dodged an obligation. Few men have so many friends as had Dan Pickering. He will be missed particularly by the Masonic fraternity in which he was so prominent and so active. In the office of the Telegram and Evening Gazette, where he was known so well, his memory will long be cherished."

1889—Philip Edmund Tripp died at Fall River, Mass., April 10, 1934. He retired from active life about 15 years ago. Previous to that time he practised law for many years in Fall River and was for a number of years a member of the firm of Jackson, Slade, Borden and Tripp. He afterwards became interested in the textile business and was treasurer of the Ancona Mills, cotton manufacturers in that city. Always, he has taken an active interest in Fall River municipal affairs and was associated with many organizations which contributed to the welfare of the city. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Borden (Chase) Tripp, two daughters, a son, and two sisters.
